

Student Honor Code for WBS Courses

Waseda Business School (WBS) is a community where intellectual rigor and thought leadership are cultivated. Classes at WBS are established through discussions between students and faculty as well as among students. To maximize the educational effect, all students taking WBS courses should comply with the honor code below:

- 1 . Students should be well-prepared for class and proactively engage in discussions and share insights.
- 2 . Students should refrain from attitudes and actions that hinder other students' learning and should contribute to maintaining a constructive learning environment.
- 3 . Students should not use electric devices such as personal computers, smart phones, digital cameras, and IC recorders so that they can concentrate in class, unless given instruction or permission by the instructor.
- 4 . Students should not provide others with course materials nor information regarding course processes, methods, or content unless given instruction or permission by the instructor.
- 5 . Students are prohibited from engaging in academic dishonesty including cheating and plagiarism in their exams, reports, and assignment papers.
- 6 . Students, as members of WBS and Waseda University, should comply with the above stipulations and any other items that the university regulates. Please read the WBS Bulletin thoroughly for university regulations.
